

Joe Petry

Barrister-at-law, Nigel Bowen Chambers

Practice Overview

Joe accepts briefs in all areas of law. He focuses particularly on intellectual property, media, general commercial litigation, and all areas of public law.

Joe is acting in patent infringement proceedings involving mechanical patents, and previously acted for the Commissioner of Patents as a solicitor in several landmark cases, including Commissioner of Patents v Thaler (2022) 289 FCR 45, a case considering whether an artificial intelligence can be an inventor. Further, he acts and advises in copyright disputes involving consumer products, photographs, drawings and software. Joe also has experience acting in the Trade Marks Office and Patents Office.

Joe has a particular interest in media law, having successfully defended a professional pet detective sued for defamation in respect of social media posts in Munro v Wheeler (No 3) [2025] NSWDC 3 (now before the Court of Appeal).

Joe's public law practice is broad. He acts for a broad range of Commonwealth agencies in civil, judicial review, criminal, and high-risk offender proceedings. He has a particular focus on acting for and advising law enforcement and intelligence agencies. Joe also appears in public law matters for individuals and corporations.
